THE GIRL GOING TO COLLEGE

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

A very busy person is the young sub-freshman just now—busy thinking and planning and anticipating. For within another month will she not be actually "in college," and is there not a vast amount of planning and anticipating to be done before then?

And the most important thing of all, just now, is the wardrobe, almost as important as a trousseau in fact, and quite as much trouble.

There probably never was a freshman went to college, unless she was held down rigidly by lack of money, or restrained by an older sister, who knew better, who did not take too many clothes. She forgets that she is coming home again Christmas, or even Thanksgiving, and that in every college town odds and ends may be bought, if needed. To look at her trunks, and the things laid out on the spare room bed, you would think that she was going on a Peary expedition, or a year's trip around the world. When she gets to college, and sees the size of the closet, or half a closet, and the fewness of the bureau drawers, into which all of this extensive wardrobe is to be put, she wishes heartily enough that she had left parts of it at home.

Nor is that the whole of the difficulty. College is subject to epidemics, in matters of clothes. These the freshman, to her great disgust, is often unable to follow, being hampered by a too complete wardrobe from home. One year, for instance, everybody wore red tam o'shanter in a certain college, and all the nice outing hats provided by fond mothers lay on the top shelves of bedroom closets. The next season the "dickers" and rubber fireman's hats took the place of even the jauntiest and neatest rain coats. They wore them and gum boots morning, noon, and night when it rained over "gym suits" and evening dress alike. Another year there was a fad for wearing wash frocks clear up until frost, and the pretty autumn suit hung all unused in the closet, while its owner "frisked about in white linen and a coat sweater. This does not necessarily prove the uselessness of outing hats or fall suits or rain coats. It merely illustrates the "peculiarities" of the college mind.

But to consider the things that we do want, which is quite as important as those we do not—there is one thing to be thought of before starting to provide a wardrobe, of any size whatever, and that is the laundry. Things must be washed, and they must be of the sort that will stand washing. Lace petticoats and fluffy, delicate underwear have a short life at the college laundry.

Four of everything in the line of underwear should be enough, four under-vests, four pairs of drawers, four pairs of stockings, with two more pairs of thinner hose, lisle or silk, for evening wear, and four corset covers or chemises. Most college girls prefer chemises, since the laundry is usually restricted to a certain number of pieces, and the chemise, one piece, takes the place of corset cover and short petticoat, two pieces.

Then, besides the white petticoats, which one already has, to wear under summer and evening frocks, there will be needed a silk skirt, or one with a silk ruffle, and some sort of dark petticoat for every day under dark skirts. For this nothing is better than good quality, light weight natten. Two of these should last all through college.

Every girl probably has at least one pair of low shoes on hand. Besides this, she will need two pairs of high shoes, although one of these need not be purchased until Christmas time, a pair of patent leather or other "best" shoes and a pair of pumps or slippers for evening.

It is not wise, unless you are sure of the kind you will want, to get a gymnasium suit beforehand.

A heavy bath robe will be needed, particularly if you are going up into New England, and a kimono of lighter weight, but may be worn with the suit. The chances are that you will not have time to wear them.

For outside clothing there is the plain suit of tailored suit, of course. With it may be worn white shirt waists or blouses of French flannel, or silk in a plain color. Flannel is nice for winter, except that for some unknown reason, a great many girls seem to have a prejudice against it. Silk sounds a bit extravagant, but if bought at the summer sales, it may often be gotten as cheaply as flannel, and if it is a plain color, to match the suit, it is perfectly suitable. Besides this, one will need either a whole dress of serge or similar material, or an extra skirt, to alter with the suit for daytime wear in classes. For freshmen, it is rather nice to have the extra skirt a plaid. If you have a blue suit a skirt of blue and white plaid, for example, will look very pretty, and may be worn with the suit. If you wish to wear white shirt waists with the skirts, four would be sufficient. A waist of net or chiffon, or two lingerie ones, will be needed, for slightly dressier occasions, where the suit is worn.

Then there is a high-neck frock for such occasions as evening lectures, concerts, teas, and Sunday or festive dinner occasions. This may be made of a variety of materials, tulle, cotton, velvet, challis, fine cashmere, pongee, or even crepe de chine. It is usually more becoming if not too much trimmed.

For dances, and for more formal evening wear, one low-neck frock of soft silk or messaline will be enough to start on at least.

The matter of dressing for dinner each night varies so in different colleges, and even in different dormitories, that it is hard to prescribe for it. Usually summer frocks, dresses and the like, or white shirt waists and skirts, will serve. At least they will do for the first term, until one knows exactly what one wants.

The preceding suggestions have been given merely as suggestions, since the needs of individuals and of different climates and places vary. They are designed particularly for the girl of moderate income, rather than the one who is taking as little as she can get along with or the girl of unlimited means. But there is one something thing about college—no matter what you wear or how you dress, there is always some one else to keep you company.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman at Richfield Springs.

MAKE TRIP IN AUTOMOBILE

Chief Justice Fuller Goes to His Summer Cottage, at Sorrento, Me., After a Stay in Chicago, His Old Home—Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce Entertain Harvard's President.

Vice President and Mrs. Sherman motored from their home in Utica last week to Richfield Springs. They spent a few days at the Earlington, and the Vice President awarded the silver cups to the winners of the Earlington hill climb, which made a brilliant finish to the week at this popular resort. The Vice President made the presentations from the steps of the wide porch, and paid special compliment to Mr. Harold Nicola De Witt, of this city, grandson of Col. O. G. Staples, who arranged and managed the affair.

Chief Justice Fuller arrived recently at his summer cottage at Sorrento, Me., after a considerable stay in Chicago, his former home.

The British Ambassador and Mrs. James Bryce had as their guest last week at the summer embassy, at North East Harbor, Me., the President of Harvard University and Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell.

Miss Adele Brewer and Miss Elizabeth Brewer, sisters of Mr. Justice Brewer, arrived last week at their home in Stockbridge, Mass. Miss Elizabeth Brewer has been a teacher at Taurus, Turkey, for many years, and with her sister, was there during the late uprising.

Miss Jennie Wallach, granddaughter of Mrs. Richard Wallach, of this city, will be formally presented to Newport society at a large reception to be given to-morrow in the summer home of her grandfather, Mr. Samuel F. Barger, of New York, by her mother, Mrs. Barger-Wallach. Miss Wallach is having a round of gaiety in Newport in this, her first season "out."

The United States marshal for the District of Columbia, Mr. Aulick Palmer, and Mrs. Palmer, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Baker at their cottage at Cape May.

Mr. Wade Chance, of London, formerly of this city, who is spending a few weeks in this country, recently returned to Long Branch, N. J., after a short visit to his former home in Canton, Ohio. Mr. Chance was married last winter to Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger.

Count and Countess Henri de Sibur and their children are at St. Moritz, in Switzerland. The Dowager Countess de Sibur, who went abroad with her son and daughter-in-law, is now at St. Bernardino, in Switzerland.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Ottenberg, of U street, to Mr. David Pressler, also of this city, took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Freund's Hall. Rabbi Louis Stern, of the Eighth Street Temple, performed the ceremony. The decorations of the banquet hall, drawing-room, and hall were of palms and pink and white roses. A beautiful arch of roses and ferns was arranged in the drawing-room, under which the bride and bridegroom stood. The bride was attended by Miss Carrie Loeb, of this city, and Miss Letitia Duffy, of Brooklyn, Bridge, and the best man was Mr. Louis Ottenberg, brother of the bride. The bridegroom was in black tuxedo, and the bride was in a gown of white net and princess lace over white chiffon and satin, with a veil of tulle, held with a wreath of orange blossoms. The bride carried a white bouquet of lilies, to which was attached a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids wore gowns of white mull and Valenciennes lace over pink silk, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The mother of the bride, Mrs. Isaac Ottenberg, wore black satin, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. David Pressler, wore black tulle. Following the ceremony the wedding banquet was served, after which the bride and bridegroom left Washington for Atlantic City and the North. The bride's going away gown was of dark blue Rajah. During the banquet the wedding program was read from the bride's brother-in-law and sister, United States Consul to the Canary Islands and Mrs. Sol Berlinger. Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Pressler from their wedding journey, they will be at home at the Mississippi, where their apartment is awaiting them. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cornhill, of New York; Miss Hattie Wolff, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Abram Ottenberg, and Miss Rosa Ottenberg, of Baltimore; Miss Letitia Duffy, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Judge Henry Goldfogel, of New York City.

Miss Mary Childs and Miss Fanny Childs, daughters of the rector of All Saints' Church, have gone to Eagles Mere, Pa., to spend the next few weeks.

Miss Martha Platt Worthington, of Georgetown, is spending the late summer with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Costello, of Boston, at their summer home, at Furnace Haven, Mass.

An interesting wedding of next Wednesday will be that of Miss Nannie S. Ryan and Mr. Richard E. Street, grandson of Gen. William Street. The bride is a musician well known in Washington circles. The future home of Mr. Street and his bride will be in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Heald have recently joined their daughter, Miss Katherine, in Berlin, where she went early in the spring. Miss Heald has a phenomenal contralto voice, but her health for a year past has been frail, and she is now in Germany more for the benefit from the waters there than for the study of music.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cleveland Perkins and their daughters, of this city, who are traveling abroad, arrived recently at Chamounix, Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, of this city, and their daughter, Miss Yvonne Townsend, are at Carlsbad, Germany, for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Howard Carroll, who spent several seasons in Washington and has many friends here, entertained a smart company at luncheon last Friday at Bar Harbor, where she and her daughter, Miss Suzanne Carroll, are spending August. Her guests were Mrs. Robert Hinkley, of this city; Mrs. Platt Hunt, of Washington; Mrs. Perin, of New York; Mrs. Edward La Montague, of New York; Mrs. Albert Gould Jennings, of Mass.; and Mrs. Arthur Espey.

The engagement is announced of Miss Doris Saver, of Montgomery, Ala., to Mr. Julian Baer, formerly of this city, now of Georgetown, Ky.

The hospital entertainment in the form of Greek pastorels being arranged by Mrs. A. C. Barney at Bar Harbor will be given at the Building of Arts on

DULIN & MARTIN CO.

Pottery, Porcelain, China, Glass, Silver, &c.
1215 F St. and 1214-18 G St.

Thursday afternoon, August 26, Mrs. Barney is quite in her element in this work, and has not only arranged the performance, but has created the pastorels.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lillie Mae Swink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Swink, to Mr. Charles Cleveland Byrnes, both of Washington. Miss Swink formerly lived in New Haven, Conn.

The date for the marriage of Miss Beatrice W. Benjamin to Mr. Alexander Dallas Bacha Pratt will be Wednesday, November 17. The ceremony will take place in St. Thomas' Church. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Benjamin, and the bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bacha Pratt.

The marriage is announced of Miss Adrienne Allaire and Mr. W. Hayden Collins in the Church of the Incarnation Saturday afternoon. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Collins departed immediately after the ceremony for their honeymoon trip.

Mrs. Edwin Allen Hitchcock has gone to Lenox, Mass., where she is spending a few days at the Hotel Curtis.

The marriage of Miss Mary C. Ruppert, eldest daughter of Mr. John H. Ruppert, to Mr. Carl Wilhelm Lippold, of this city, took place on Saturday evening in St. Mary's Catholic Church. Rev. F. A. Wannenbergh performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Hessler and the bridegroom's best man was Mr. John Gideon Parker. The bride wore a gown of blue pongee and a large picture hat. The maid of honor wore light blue satin, with a large blue hat, and carried Bridesmaid roses. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom left Washington for an automobile trip North. On their return they will be at home at 415 Park road after September 1, where they will go to house-keeping. No cards were issued.

At St. Michael and All Angels' Church on Saturday, a quiet but pretty wedding was performed, Rev. J. H. Dells officiating. The contracting parties were Miss Marguerite Van de Venter, daughter of Mrs. E. W. and the late M. G. Van de Venter, of Washington, and Mr. C. O. Dumas, of Nebraska.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. R. W. Van de Venter, wearing a handsome traveling suit of dark blue cloth, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a large bouquet of lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Maybell Van de Venter, who was becomingly attired in light blue, with picture hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumas left Washington immediately after the ceremony on a trip by way of the Great Lakes and Canada. On their return they will reside in Washington.

DESERTS TO VISIT ILL FATHER

Soldier Captured Within Few Miles of Parent's Bedside.

Apprehended in Connecticut After Being Arrested for Stealing Pair of Trousers.

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 15.—John Brummer, a deserter from Fort Slocum, and said to have escaped from the big military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., was captured to-day after he went to the home of Frederick Beltz, a prominent New York lawyer, in Riverside, and asked for a pair of trousers.

Not receiving the trousers, he went to the stable and took a pair he found hanging there. He discarded those he was wearing, which were a mere bundle of rags, and put on the stolen ones. Shortly afterward he was arrested.

In court he told Judge Burnes that he had a father who was dying in a sanatorium at Wallingford, Conn., and asked to be allowed to go and see him. He wept all through the court session. Inquiries were made at the sanatorium, and it was found that the father was ill there with tuberculosis. Frederick F. Knapp, a prominent citizen here, touched by the boy's story, interceded in his behalf, and Brummer would have been allowed to go free if he had not admitted to the police that he was a deserter from the army. He said that he had a letter from his father, which begged him to come to his side before he died.

Brummer pleaded to be sent to jail rather than be turned over to the military authorities. Inquiries at Fort Slocum, where Brummer said he had been stationed, disclosed the fact that last November he had been sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., for desertion.

Brummer would say nothing, but he found sympathizers here who drew the inference that inspired by the letter telling of his dying father, he had escaped from one of the most heavily guarded prisons in the United States, wandered 1,500 miles and evaded arrest until he came within fifty miles of his father's bedside.

The marriage is announced of Miss Mary Keiner, of Washington, to Mr. Daniel Sumate, of Fauquier County, Va. The wedding took place on Monday afternoon, August 9, in Norfolk, at the home of Mrs. Annie B. White. Rev. Dr. J. Ernest Thacker, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony. Only a small party of relatives and intimate friends were in attendance.

THREE PRESIDENTS MAY MEET.

Taft's Itinerary May Induce Gomes and Obaldia to Visit Him.

If the present itinerary of President Taft in his contemplated tour of the United States is adhered to, it is probable that upon his arrival at New Orleans, about November 1, he will find awaiting him there Jose Domingo de Obaldia, President of Panama, and Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, President of Cuba. The two executives have not yet accepted the invitation to the conference, but should they do so the Navy Department will detail a special cruiser to bring them to New Orleans.

The object of the meeting is to promote more cordial relations between the three republics, and bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulties which now exist between the countries.
